DETAILED ACTION

Examiner acknowledges a submission of the amendment and arguments filed on June 25, 2007. Claims 11 - 14, 16, 17, 19 and 20 are amended. Amendment and arguments have overcome rejections under USC 101, 112, 1st paragraph, 102 (b) and 103(a).

REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

An amended independent Claim 11 discloses a method for switching a semiconductor circuit breaker, which inter alia, includes controlling a resistance of a breaker gap of the semiconductor by a control voltage such that a power loss from the semiconductor device does not exceed a predetermined setpoint and allows continuous operation at the predetermined setpoint and regulates the power loss to the predetermined setpoint. The closest reference for the claim is Hausman et al. (US 6,347,028), which discloses following: controlling a resistance of the semiconductor circuit breaker by a control voltage such that a power loss from the semiconductor circuit breaker does not exceed a predetermined set point (col. 9, line 9 - col. 10, line 41). It further discloses monitoring a difference voltage tapped across terminals of the semiconductor circuit breaker (26 in Fig. 8A); an absolute value of the differential voltage is obtained due to use of diodes (D1, D2 in Fig. 8B) and compared to a reference potential (voltage at pin 11 of comparator r42 in Fig. 8B); determining and storing the absolute value of the differential voltage (across capacitor C2 in Fig. 8B). However, it does not disclose allowing continuous operation at the predetermined setpoint and regulation of the power loss to the predetermined setpoint, as claimed.

Another independent claim 14 essentially recites the same limitation.

Allowability resides, at least in part, in the above-described limitations, which has not been disclosed in the Prior Art in a search.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
